

All taped up

ALL TAPED UP: Hurricane Belle was huffed and puffed up, by radio and TV, Monday. New England was led to expect something terrible, and everyone dashed off to buy a new flashlight or other necessity. Main Street stores, according to a report, ran out of batteries. There was a little wind, and 1½ inches of rain. A few stores taped up their windows. Tuesday morning all was well with the world.

Selectman Danny Gillis and broken windows

A. Daniel Gillis has a point, but it is a difficult one. There are many young people who break windows. To catch them at it is another thing. Every year the Wilmington schools suffer thousands of dollars in costs for new windows. Every week some unfortunate Wilmington business man finds he has to install new windows, as he becomes the victim of thoughtless fun, or perhaps worse.

Mr. Gillis wants it stopped. He is going after the top man, to get it stopped. That top man is the Town Manager.

The Haverhill Incinerator program

Statewide plans
A program has been discussed recently in which there would be five recycling plants, throughout the state, in five regions.

The plants will burn waste, rubbish and garbage, and generate steam, which would be used to generate electricity. The planning would call for private contractors to handle the plants, and turn 90 per cent of their profits from the selling of steam to their communities. They would also return part of the monies realized from recycling of steel and other metals and materials.

There have been some stories to the effect that the various communities would be obliged to join such facilities.

Tuesday night the selectmen of Tewksbury learned differently.

Haverhill facility

Two state officials, William Gaudin of the Bureau of Solid Waste and Russ Sylva, Assistant Secretary of Environmental Affairs, urged the Tewksbury selectmen to have the town join as one of the communities supporting the proposed Haverhill incinerator.

The state, the selectmen were told, would not be a part of the financial interest in the incinerator, but will put up the "front end money." The bureau has $10 millions in a solid waste bond issue.

There will be 30 to 40 towns in the area of the Haverhill facility, running from Amesbury to probably Tewksbury, and up into New Hampshire. The chairman of the negotiating committee is the Town Manager of Andover.

The two men told the Tewksbury selectmen that the Haverhill group "is shooting" for a spring start. Construction would not be completed for several years.

It will be easier to get the cities to join, than the towns, the two men said. The towns have to vote to join in their annual town meeting, and there could be difficulties there.

Gaudin said that the smaller towns in Massachusetts, towns

75 kids in a summer adventure

Next Wednesday, in the Herbert C. Barrows Auditorium of the Wilmington High School 75 youngsters, six to 12 years old, will be having a summer adventure.

The youngsters are producing their own musical - Sing Out Sweet Land. It is being done under the sponsorship of the Wilmington Recreation Department.

It is hard to tell who is having the most enjoyment - the 75 kids, or the adults who are helping them to produce their own musical.

Brother James is one of the helpers. He is affiliated with St. Thomas Church, and is a musical person. He is devoting a lot of time to helping the young people with their musical program.

Jim Murray, a student from Northern Essex is another helper. He is the director - the chief coordinator. Jim lives on Salem Street.

Cathy Leahy is a young lady who is taking the part of Director of Dance. Cathy is a West Street girl, a senior at Wilmington High School.

The Wilmington Spotlighters are contributing of their talents and materials. There are a couple of professionals in the background - a man who will do the lighting, and another who is in charge of makeup.

Those kids are having a lot of real help, and they are excited about the prospects of their own Musical Comedy, next Wednesday. It is quite an undertaking.

The dress rehearsal - for the youngsters, is 2 p.m. Then, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday comes the proof of all the work - a full blown musical comedy, for the parents of 75 young people, and their friends. There is to be no ticket charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kennison

On Sunday, July 11, Nancy Marie Culleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Culleton of Parkview Terrace, North Reading became the bride of Richard A. Kennison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Kennison of Salem St., Wilmington.

Traditional wedding music enhanced the ceremony performed by the Rev. Edward Geary before the flower decked altar of St. Theresa's Church in North Reading.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of white silk organza with venise lace accents fashioned with a high neckline, fitted bodice and empire waist. Her long fitted sleeves ended in ruffles at the wrist and the long a-line skirt flowed into a chapel length train, trimmed with appliques and edged in venise lace. Her veil was of silk illusion and elbow length, caught to a camelot cap of venise lace matching the lace edging on the veil. She carried a bouquet of mixed white tearoses, baby's breath, stephanitos and ivy accented with white streamers.

Mrs. Linda Andreason, sister of the bride served as matron of honor in a gown of maise poly-knit fashioned with a high neckline, shirred yoke, fitted bodice and a-line skirt covered by a long sleeved jacket with front tie crossing. Her matching picture has was of maise in sheer horse hair with matching veiling and satin ribbon bow and streamers. Her old fashioned yellow bouquet of yellow tearoses, daisies, miniature yellow carnations and baby's breath was accented with yellow satin streamers.

Serving as bridesmaids were Patty Culleton, Cindy Culleton, Nancy Kennison and junior bridesmaid Barbara Culleton.

Their gowns in apricot, aqua, nile green and lilac were fashioned with a high neckline, shirred yoke, fitted bodice, a-line skirt and were covered by a long sleeved jacket with front tie closing. They wore matching picture hats in sheer horsehair with matching veiling and satin ribbon bow and streamers. They carried old fashioned bouquets of tea roses, daisies, miniature carnations and baby's breath with ribbon streamers to match their gowns.

Tom Kennison served his brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Barry Meehan, Dan Joyce, Tom Cluff and junior usher Tommy Culleton.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Culleton chose a green chiffon gown with illusion elbow length cape in front which came up to meet at the top of her back and had a long, flowing floor-length illusion cape back. She wore an orchid corsage and silver accessories.

The mother of the groom was attired in a hot pink floor length gown with an elbow length front illusion cape. She wore silver accessories and an orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Moose Hall in North Reading where approximately 100 friends and relatives gathered to congratulate the couple. Sheila Kennison circulated the buest book.

For traveling the new Mrs. Kennison chose a cream colored pant suit with matching jacket and navy blue and white accessories.

Following a wedding trip through the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple is now living in Methuen.

The bride is a graduate of North Reading High School and is currently employed at Com-

She teaches in Japan

The people of Japan are incredibly hospitable. So says Marie Gleason of 1764 Main Street, Tewksbury. Marie knows of what she speaks, for she teaches in Japan, and she speaks the language of the country.

Twenty-six years old, about five foot seven in height, she is home for a brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gleason.

The Japanese people, she says, love to tell visitors of their customs and their country. But, when they realize that the visitor speaks their language they seem to lose some of their interest.

Marie first went to Japan in 1971. She had an offer of a job through the college from which she had graduated, Emmanuel College. The job, it turned out, was teaching the English language in a Japanese High School. The school was in Kurashiki, in the Okayama Prefecture of Honshu.

After she arrived and was teaching she realized how she needed to know the Japanese language, and Marie started studying. There were very few "foreigners" around. The High School had some tapes, for first year Japanese students, and she got a teacher to help her and started her studies.

Then, in the spring of 1972 she returned to Tewksbury. She had plans of studying at Lowell State, from which she received a degree in 1973.

Mrs. Peter Medico of Salem Road, Tewksbury, is a Japanese girl, and Marie studied with Mrs. Medico. She took two courses, too, at Middlebury College in Vermont - nine week summer courses, in which the only language spoken was Japanese. In August 1975 she returned to Japan.

She had applied for a job teaching English in the International School of Kobe. The school is not a religious school, but is run by the Marist Brothers. The children in the school are preparing for college. There are many nationalities, some Japanese, some British, Filipino, Spanish, etc.

Marie teaches fourth grade English. There are no Americans in her class. There are two British, and 10 other languages are spoken by her pupils, including Japanese.

In the classroom all is in the English language. Outside the language spoken is mostly Japanese.

Marie lives in Ashiya, which is between Kobe and Osaka, and not too far distant from Kyoto, the ancient city of Japan, which has a wonderful bronze statue of Buddha, world renowned, and is affiliated with Boston through the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Kyoto was not bombed, in World War II, thanks to the influence of the Museum of Fine Arts, and Marie is thankful for that fact of life.

Her home in Ashiya is in a two story building, part of a large complex. She has a very nice apartment, on the ground floor. Many of those living in the complex are Japanese, and many are not.

Every day she takes the train to Kobe, where she teaches. The trip is a fortunate one, she reports. She is going to Kobe when everyone else is going the other way, and this happens twice a day.

Japanese trains, during rush hours, are incredibly crowded, but Marie finds the conditions to be pleasant, traveling the "wrong way" on the railroad. The Japanese railroads, in themselves, are worthy of a story because the people have done so much with their train transportation.

Every seven to 10 minutes she can take a train, to Kobe, or where she chooses. It can be an express, or a local, as she chooses.

The pride of Japan is the Silver Bullet, which runs from Tokyo to Osaka at a speed of 125 miles an hour. The Silver Bullet does in three hours what an automobile would take nine hours to do. There is dining car service, there is telephone service, and everything is very nice.

Marie gets to more than a regular share of Rotary meetings, in Japan. She is called upon to be an interpreter, not only at Rotary, but at other functions, and she gets to meet the Rotary Fellows, students who get to Japan for a years' study, financed by Rotary

International

Her father and mother were in Japan this summer. Her father John is a Past Governor of Rotary, and was attending a Rotary function. They spent two weeks in Japan, and the reader can guess who their interpreter was.

Marie is home only for a few days, and will be returning to Japan shortly to again take up her teaching duties. She will fly back by Chinese Air Lines, Los Angeles to Tokyo. That air line is based in Taiwan, and Marie has used it before. She is happy to be going back to Japan. It is such an interesting country.

Another Little League Park?

The Wilmington Little League has 16 uniformed teams, Major League and Minor League. It has eight or 10 farm teams. All told, girls and boys (girls are Little League players, today) there are 370 or 375 players in the Wilmington Little League.

Wilmington Little League tries to conform to the rules of Little League, as laid down by the national organization. One of these is that there should be sufficient playing room for the players. If measured by these rules the Wilmington Little League could find itself in trouble, because it does not have enough playing fields.

To some of the Little League officials this is a sore point. For several years they have been discussing the need for another field. It is a subject that is scheduled to be discussed in the next board meeting of the Wilmington Little League.

Where is there land that can be a second Little League Park? It should be about 200 or 225 feet square, at least, - say 20,000 square feet. Twenty thousand square feet is, admittedly, a lot of land in these times.

Somewhere there might be a lot of land - something that cannot be used in a real estate development, for instance. If anyone knows of such land, he or she can tell the former president of the Wilmington Little League about it - Ray McNamara of McNamara Tire.

Ray will welcome the news with open arms, and so will the directors. He is the president of Wilmington Rotary, the organization which supplied the present field, in company with thousands of Wilmington donors. There is some money available to start the construction of the field if it can be found.

The Scott MacGillivray fund, now in the Melrose Bank, has had a number of donations, and there is some cash. More donations are expected.

If a site can be found, there can be the money to fix up that site, in the fund, and in the muscles of the volunteers who are always ready to work for such a project.

Ray McNamara would like an answer.

Scott MacGillivray Memorial Fund

The latest contributions to the Scott MacGillivray Memorial Fund have come from:

Mary Simmons, Kirk Street, Wilmington; Cindy Holloway, Oakdale Rd.; William and Harriet Talbot, Newbury; Frankie and Paule Groom, Oregon Rd., Tewksbury; William Talbot, Jr., Amesbury; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heuber, Woodland Drive, Wilmington.

Those wishing to contribute should mail donations to Nicki Johnsons, Melrose Savings Bank.

All star game a Swan Song for many

For many Merrimack Valley football stars the 27th Lowell and Greater Lowell All-Star game will be a gridiron swan song. Many will never play football again. For that reason this game usually sticks in the minds of most of the talented athletes. The game marks the beginning of another football season in the area, and it is always an excellent summer show.

In recent years the teams have been evenly matched mainly due to a change that helped bolster the Lowell All-Stars. The contest now is billed as "North vs South." In 1973 possibly the greatest Greater Lowell All-Star team buried the Lowell Stars 32-0. Halfbacks Charlie D'Avanzo (Tewksbury) and Rick Nestor (Billerica) ripped through the Lowell line all night as the late Ray Riddick watched from the sidelines.

Since that game the teams have been balanced somewhat making for a more exciting brand of football.

Many great Tewksbury and Wilmington footballers have participated in the game. Included in that group are memorable names like - Alan Jansen, Leo Campbell, Paul Olson, Steve Coursey, Dean Devlin, Bob Bavota, Rick Barry, Jack Virtus, Bruce McMillan and the great Mike Esposito - all from Wildcat country. Redmen who have shone under the lights of Cawley Stadium are John DiLiberto, Steven Smith, Hovey Qua, Charlie Roux, Charlie D'Avanzo, Steve Flagg, Chuck Minard, and Richard Sullivan.

This year should be no exception for either town. Both Tewksbury and Wilmington have fine representatives. Wildcat tackle Gary McDonald is included along with Redmen stars Tommy Sullivan, Rick Mackey, Mark Stephens, Paul Bradley and Steve Looney. McDonald and Bradley were two of the finest defensive linemen in the MVC in 1975.

This writer played in the 1973 all star contest that saw Tewksbury's Charlie D'Avanzo win the most valuable as Greater Lowell team altered the future formats with that 32-0. It is impossible to erase such a memory. With every all-star game the memory of 1973 is refurbished. It is a great game that has provided many a football player with the athletic thrill of his life. Area fans can take pride in their stars with each game. This year's squad should be well worth watching as practice opens up shortly under the direction of Wilmington head coach Fred Bellissimo.

Superstars Olympics

LAURIE CONTI: Doing the baseball throw in the Superstars Competition on August 4 co-sponsored by the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks and the Wilmington Recreation Department.

A bit of recognition

The Red Sox were the 1976 Senior League champions when they defeated the Indians two games to one, in a three game series.

To start the series the Red Sox crushed the Indians 13-6, winning pitcher was Richir Giovdano. The second game was a 4-3 upset by the Indians with Steve LaFave on the mound.

Tied, one game apiece, the Red

Sox ended the series with a respectable 6-3 win declaring them the Senior League champs and pitcher Jim Bossi taking the deserved winning credits.

Next to follow were the all star games:

The first game was tied 1-1 at the end of the seventh, the game went into overtime, but was called to be finished the following night. Due to poor weather conditions, the game wasn't finished until Thursday. The all-stars managed to pull off a 2-1 victory.

MARO ORLOWSKI: Running the 30 yard dash in the Superstars Competition on August 4 co-sponsored by the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks and the Wilmington Recreation Department.

Unfortunately their night of victory also turned out to be a night of defeat - after playing Maynard, the all-stars faced Arlington and were defeated 8-7.

A pizza party at Rocco's Restaurant on the 24th of July showed the all-stars their efforts were not unnoticed.

Mr & Mrs Richard Peters

Gayle Ann Given, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Given of Mystic Ave., Wilmington became the bride of Richard John Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peters of 5 Grant St., on June 5.

The lovely candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Francis Mackin before the flower-deck altar of St. Thomas Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of soft white knitted chiffon featuring a V neckline and Juliet sleeves, both trimmed with tiny pleated organza. The bodice was appliqued with Venice lace that also encircled the empire waist from which fell a full a-line skirt sweeping into a built in cathedral train. Her headpiece was of camelot styling in matching lace caught to a cathedral veil of fine illusion edged with lace. She carried a bouquet of carnations, centered with an orchid and surrounded by baby's breath.

Maureen Keller, of Andover, sister of the bride served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Linda O'Neill of Lawrence, a close friend of the bride; Nancy Peters, sister of the groom; Kathleen Ressler, sister of the groom; Arta Peters, sister-in-law of the groom; Donna Harvey, close friend of the bride; Susan Brown, also a close friend of the bride. Susan Clark of Melrose, a close family friend acted as flower girl.

The attendants wore gowns or slip dresses styled and topped by shoulder capes. The multi-colored gowns were in every possible color of the rainbow. Picture hats with satin streamers completed the outfits.

Mark Peters served his twin brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Robert Peters, Jr., brother of the groom; Bob Given Jr., brother of the bride; Al Swan, Gary Baker, Daniel Kindred and Michael Landers, close friends of the couple and John P. Given brother of the bride.

Patrick Clark, a close friend of the family acted as ring bearer.

The mother of the bride was attired in a blue polyester gown with chiffon bolero jacket and Juliet sleeves. The groom's mother chose a yellow polyester gown topped by a shoulder cape. For traveling the new Mrs. Peters chose a light blue pant suit with short belted jacket. The bride is a 1974 graduate of Wilmington High School and is currently employed with Charles River Breeding Laboratories.

Her husband is a 1971 graduate of Wilmington High School and is presently employed by the Town of Wilmington.

Following a wedding trip through the White Mountains, the couple is now at home on Shawsheen Ave., Wilmington.

Acting as best man was the groom's brother Robert McKenna. The ushers included Hugh Casey, James Kennedy and James Ritchie, all friends of the groom. Sean McKenna, the groom's nephew, served as ring bearer.

The bride was elegantly dressed in an original Victorian style bridal gown of ivory silk organza. Chantilly lace and seed pearl motifs were appliqued to the gown. A circular, full-length train flowed from the waist to the floor. Designed in overlaid petals of chantilly lace and seed pearls, the elbow-length veil adorned the bride.

The bride's attendants wore Blanci gowns, one styled of pink French voile and the other of mint.

Accenting the gowns were matching parasols and picture hats. The flower girl looked adorable in pink and mint flowered gown with a white, floor-length pinafore. She, also, carried a white parasol and wore a pink picture hat.

Memories of the Wilmington Methodist Church

The church building which had stood for so many years at the corner of Thurston Avenue and Church Street is no more. It was knocked down Tuesday. This is to speak of the church as it was over 50 years ago. The writer attended Sunday School there for several years.

It was one of those things. The writer had been enrolled in the Sunday School of the Congregational Church. But the Claude Thompson family had a son who was in the Methodist Sunday School, and the Thompson family went down in their carriage, every Sunday. The parents were in church, and the son in Sunday School at the same time.

They had a nice carriage, with a small place in back in which small packages could be placed. The horse, with a white diamond on his forehead, had the name of Dandy. He was a nice, steady animal.

The Thompson family owned the Thompson's Grove, near Silver Lake, now the site of St. Dorothy's Church. The trip to the church was down Glen Road, which at that time was not to be described as paved. It was fun for two boys to be seated in back, looking backward, with their legs hanging out of the carriage.

The Superintendent of the Sunday School was Nina Barrows - Mrs. Herbert Barrows. Some years later the Boston Traveller described Nina as "one of the more gracious ladies of Massachusetts." The treasurer was Alice Roberts, and the secretary was Mrs. Arthur Hamilton.

Alice Roberts was the second wife of Fred Roberts, the prominent chocolate manufacturer who built the big stone house on Burlington Avenue in Wilmington.

She had been the treasurer of the firm, and had an important part in the manufacture of those chocolates. She was German born, named Alice Albrink. There were three children, a boy and two girls, and it can be said of Alice Roberts that she was a lady without any pretensions.

Alice had been the treasurer of Apollo Chocolates. She fitted very nicely into the position of treasurer of the Methodist Sunday School.

Once a year Alice Roberts would invite everyone in the Sunday School to her place, for a picnic, instead of attending class in church. It was quite an event. Everyone would walk up Burlington Avenue - march is not the right word. There were sidewalks on Burlington Avenue with a granite dust surface. Some sidewalks are still there but many are gone, disappeared into the maw of the encroaching and all encompassing automobile.

There would be games, in back of the Roberts House, and perhaps some of the children would wander through the flower garden on the easterly side, a flower garden that was as large as some back yard vegetable gardens. There would be lunch picnic style, in back, and then there would be hot chocolate in the Palm Room of the house and everyone would walk back to the Sunday School.

Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, Nettie Hamilton, was a lady who was all wrapped up in the doings of the Methodist Church. The Hamilton family lived on Shawsheen Avenue. He ran a lunch cart in Wilmington Square, one that was on the westerly side of Main Street, near where the sidewalk is today.

The story is told that Nettie, on one occasion, had baked a bunch of pies, for a ladies' social, in the Methodist Church. She put the pies in back of the wagon that she and her husband used, and was preparing to drive down to the church, and the horse ran away, and all the pies were ruined.

It was shortly after that that Arthur and Nettie Hamilton bought their home on Church Street, where Earle Hamilton lives today. The principal reason, one can guess, is that it was closer to the church.

Nettie Hamilton used to walk to the Sunday School every Sunday, and she was frequently the first person to be present. She always taught a boy's class, and it is said that after Sunday School the boys would go up to the Hamilton home, uninvited, to see and talk with Mrs. Hamilton some more. Her position in the Sunday School was that of secretary.

Some of the stories that can be told revolve around persons in the Methodist Church at that time, relative to the problem of prohibition.

The writer's father was not a firm believer in the law as it was then written, but the position of the church was to support the law. At one time the writer's father was making a cement walk, for Arthur Hamilton - the walk is still there. He had a bad cold, and was coughing as he worked.

Arthur Hamilton came out of the house, and discreetly said that there was some cough medicine in the cellar, available for use. There was, too. It was a bottle of good whiskey, which was used to cure the symptoms of that cold.

Arthur sold his lunch cart and retired, some time about 1930. In later years, as an old man, he again went to work, this time for the town, as a laborer on the town's highways. It sort of pained the writer to see him handling a pick and shovel - he seemed to the writer's eye to be such an old man, but Arthur didn't seem to complain.

After working there for a few years he retired, for a second time. It was about 40 years ago that he died.

Harold Wilson was a prohibition agent, in the service of the Federal government. He lived in a home at the corner of Lake Street and Parker Avenue in South Tewksbury, and was always leading local officials in the various town's raids on places suspected of purveying the forbidden beverages. Harold later moved to a home on Church Street right beside the common, where the Scarano family lives today.

One of the places he raided, at one time, was the Quincy House, in Boston. Governor Alvan T. Fuller was being honored at a banquet. Wilson and his assistants were pictured, in the Boston Post as taking out case after case of liquor. A cartoon in the same issue showed Fuller and friends with right hands up, saying "I saw no liquor."

Harold Wilson, on more than one occasion, occupied the pulpit of the old Methodist Church, to dwell on the evils of liquor.

One of the many events that happened in that old church building was a visit by Father Albert J. Shea, of St. Thomas Church.

For a few years there had been an undercurrent of bad feeling, among the clergymen of Wilmington and among some parishioners. It was one of those unfortunate things.

Thus it was no mistake on the part of the Archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Cushing, that Father Shea was sent out to become the Parish Priest of St. Thomas Church. Fr. Shea and Cardinal Cushing were classmates in St. Johns, and Fr. Shea was a man who could get along with anyone - jolly and compassionate, and without any rancor in his heart.

During the time that Father Shea was the parish priest the old St. Thomas Church caught fire, and it was a symptom of the good feeling that then existed that the other clergymen were offering the use of their churches to Fr. Shea. It was at this time that he came out with his joke about the Congregational Church - he called it St. Congregational.

Anyway, one of the Methodist ministers was being transferred to another parish, and there was a goodbye party in the Methodist Church. Maybe the minister was the Rev. Otis Maxfield - maybe it was the Rev. Richard Harding, the writer is not certain.

Among those who came to wish Godspeed was the Rev. Albert J. Shea of St. Thomas.

The offering of the use of the Protestant Church facilities to a Catholic priest, in Wilmington, was the beginning of a movement toward a new ecumenicity, in the town.

The visit of Fr. Shea, to the Methodist Church, sealed that movement.

(Possibly it may have been the new church building to which Fr. Shea went, when he paid the visit related above. In either event, it is a good story on inter-church relations. Ed.)

TOWN OF WILMINGTON

BOARD OF WATER AND SEWER COMMISSIONERS RULES AND REGULATIONS OF SEWER USE LEGAL NOTICE

At a duly authorized meeting of the Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners held the fifth day of August, 1976 it was voted to amend the Town of Wilmington Rules and Regulations of Sewer Use.

ARTICLE II, SECTION I as hereby amended reads as follows:

No unauthorized person shall uncover, make any connections with or open into, use, alter, or disturb any public sewer or appurtenance thereof without first obtaining a written permit from the Superintendent. Any person proposing a new discharge into the system or a substantial change in the volume or character of pollutants that are being discharged into the system shall notify the Superintendent at least forty-five (45) days prior to the proposed change or connection.

ARTICLE III, SECTION 9 as hereby amended reads as follows:

All measurements, tests, and analyses of the characteristics of waters and wastes to which reference is made in these Rules and Regulations shall be determined in accordance with the latest edition of "Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Wastewater," published by the American Public Health Association, and shall be determined at the control manhole provided, or upon suitable samples taken at said control manhole.

In the event that no special manhole has been required, the control manhole shall be considered to be the nearest downstream manhole in the public sewer to the point at which the building sewer is connected. Sampling shall be carried out by customarily accepted methods to reflect the effect of constituents upon the sewage works and to determine the existence of hazards to life, limb, and property. (The particular analyses involved will determine whether a twenty-four (24) hour composite of all outfalls of a premise is appropriate or whether a grab sample or samples should be taken. Normally, but not always BOD and suspended solids analyses are obtained from 24-hour composites of all outfalls whereas pH's are determined from periodic grab samples).

(a) All industries discharging into a public sewer shall perform such monitoring of their discharges as the Superintendent and/or other duly authorized employees of the Town may reasonably require, including installation, use, and maintenance of monitoring equipment, keeping records and reporting the results of such monitoring to the Superintendent. Such records shall be made available upon request by the Superintendent to other agencies having jurisdiction over discharges to the receiving waters.

As hereby and above amended the Town of Wilmington Sewer Use Rules and Regulations shall remain in full force and effect.

John J. Leary is a senatorial candidate

John J. Leary, Bedford accountant, has announced himself a candidate for state senator in the fifth Middlesex district.

As an accountant, he says, he is aware of the inequities in the tax structure. The average taxpayer, he reports, is over burdened with taxation. As a legislator he intends to attempt to resolve this situation.

Part of his statement follows: "I feel that recently there has been educational deficiency in the areas of reading, writing and mathematics. Proper legislation, such as the creation of minimum educational standards could help improve the quality of the entire educational system.

"Another of my concerns is environmental protection. In light of our present economic decline, proposals have been made to relax environmental standards. I am afraid that this is only a short term measure for the remedy of the economic recession in our state. The long term results can only be detrimental to us all.

"One of the most serious disgraces of government is our near total disregard for the senior citizen. I would suggest reforms that would restore to our elderly the self-respect and dignity they so rightly deserve.

Candlewood Village to become Woburn Heights

James V. DeCarolis of 175 Kendall Road, Tewksbury took a slight bow, Tuesday night, at the Wilmington Planning Board meeting. Mr. DeCarolis was the first land developer to file plans for a housing development since the Wilmington board has its new land development regulations.

The regulations were adopted about a year ago. They call, among other things, for a fee of $100 an acre, and $1 for each foot of road in the plans. The bill, in the case of Mr. DeCarolis, comes to more than $2 thousand.

DeCarolis is buying the old sand pit which, 20 years ago, was the property of Fred "Sunshine" Smith. A year ago it was called Candlewood Village, and was the controversial center of arguments about a proposed facility for low and moderate income housing.

Now DeCarolis owns the property. He plans to erect 20 homes, on the land overlooking the headwaters of the Ipswich River.

DeCAROLIS AT THE PLANNING BOARD: At left is Atty. Joel Gardiner, of the board.
